Darlington County Economic Development Partnership debuts its new website

July 1, 2016

"Working in partnership with Amanda Loveday of NP Strategy and Mike Deas of Ideas Abound, we have updated our site to bring a fresh look to our website," explained Frank Willis, executive director. "From new photos and maps of available sites, the new website was designed to make it easy for site selectors to find Darlington County and discover the site or building they need to complete their project. We invite our members to visit our new site. Please note that the website has changed from .biz to .com, and so have our email addresses." appointed to the Partnership board at the council meeting on June 6, 2016.

Frank Willis, Executive Director, expressed his thanks to former board members Ben Kilpatrick and Ed Krajack for their years of service to Darlington County. "We appreciate the years of dedication to the Partnership demonstrated by Ben Kilpatrick and Ed Krajack and wish them well in the future. They have seen a lot of progress over the past few years and their support for the new Darlington County I-20 Industrial Park and other projects has meant a lot."

Mr. Willis welcomed new members John Kimbrough and Greg Alexander and looked forward to their contributions toward further gains in the county.

Tharp named president of Darlington Raceway

Florence Morning News, June 29, 2016

DARLINGTON, S.C. - Darlington Raceway announced Wednesday it has named Kerry Tharp as President of the track Too Tough To Tame, effective July 18. Tharp was most recently senior director of racing communications for NASCAR. Tharp replaces current Darlington Raceway President Chip Wile, who accepted the position of President of Daytona International Speedway back in April.
