ANNUAL REPORT

The past year became a period of deep reflection for our team — insights that go far beyond a standard reporting cycle. Through our own experience, we strengthened our belief in what true resilience is: acting with love. We were honest, laughed and grieved together, shared stories, and listened thousands of times more to the stories that shape the resilience of our nation.

This year was marked by tangible, measurable results in our work. Not only did we provide aid, but we also created cultural value and developed infrastructure to increase our effectiveness. To ensure long-term support, we opened our own service center. This step enabled us to maintain the equipment and promptly settle debts from previous repairs.

We gained hundreds of good friends and several reliable strategic partners. We created many beautiful items and organized numerous events. Our team actively pursued education and participated in IT forums and PR-industry events.

We made a conscious decision to support Ukrainian culture — including music, mural art, literature, and decorative and applied arts. You have already seen some of the first outcomes of these decisions this year.

There were also challenges — including the theft of a vehicle. However, each obstacle only strengthened our determination and reinforced the importance of our work. We do not make empty promises. Our philosophy is simple: we act first, and then we speak.

We believe in miracles. Every single day. Simply because you join us in making our dreams come true.

CULTURAL PROJECTS

THE DESTINY WILL BLOOM

Bringing our respect for Ukrainian traditions to life, this year we continued to develop the large-scale, long-term project “Fate in Bloom.”

As part of the project, together with Ukrainian crafts-women, we created 15,000 didukhs — a traditional symbol of prosperity and protection.

Made with great love, each didukh decorated homes and offices across the country, becoming part of our shared cultural identity.

OTHER INITIATIVES

Together with talented artisans, we created two large sculptures and launched collaborations with jewelry brands.

In 2024, many unique pieces were created, contributing to the development of decorative and applied arts and supporting Ukrainian creative industries.
