

THE WOULD-BE ANTI-CHRIST

Today many speculations have flaunted their way into the Christian Idea of who the Anti-Christ is? Some think he's Muslim, some think he's American, some say he Jewish. But of what creed and ethnicity will this Would be Anti-Christ be? Starting with what the Muslims belief about this issue they claim that the concept of the Antichrist, also known as the "al-Masih ad-Dajjal" in Islamic eschatology, is a figure of great significance in both Christian and Islamic traditions. In Christianity, the Anti-Christ is typically understood as a figure who will oppose Christ and deceive the world before the second coming of Jesus. In Islam, the Dajjal is a Persian false messiah who will spread corruption and chaos before the return of the true messiah, Jesus (Isa).

So, they believe that the Anti-Christ is a false Messiah. However, their Anti-

Christ again is also believed to be a Muslim and ethnically he is Persian or (Muslim) and is a false Messiah who opposes the true Jewish Messiah when he comes. So, he cannot in their eyes be Jewish or American we agree there. But we also must note here that the Muslim faith is NOT a biblical faith based on the Hebrew Scriptures or Christian faith. But it stems from the false prophet [Mohamoud] who created the Koran from his so-called prophecies and adds some ideas about some biblical characters [Click the Koran Here]'.

So, the current misconceptions that have circulated in some circles is the idea that the Anti-Christ is or will be a Muslim is not a valid concept that lines up with the Hebrew bible or the New Testament scriptures. So, we can with some certainty conclude here that the Anti-Christ is NOT ethnically a Muslim from the Christian faith and belief. The idea of a Muslim Anti-Christ being a false Messiah is a Muslim belief and is not a biblical or Christian interpretation or belief]

Christian Perspective on the Anti-Christ

In Christian eschatology, the Anti-Christ is described in various passages in the New Testament and the Old Testament. However, these texts do not specifically identify the Antichrist as a follower of Islam or as coming from a particular religious background. So, the Christian perspective on the ethnicity of the Anti-Christ according to both the Old and New Testament does not support the idea or concept that the Anti-Christ is Muslim, Jewish or American. Those who hold to that idea are misguided in biblical interpretation. As the Old Testament does reveal the true ethnicity of the coming Anti-Christ.

Old & New Testament reveals the Anti-Christ Ethnicity

According to the prophet [Dan.7:3, 9:26-27] the Anti-Christ will be of Roman origin. The coming Anti-Christ comes from the future last revived Roman empire. As [Rev.13:1-10] also states that the Anti-Christ will be a gentile from the gentile nations some think that could be of any region, but Daniel says he the Anti-Christ will be like the ones who destroyed the 70 AD temple, and they were not the Syrians or the Jews it was the Romans. So, the Anti-Christ will not be Jewish, or will he be a Muslim or an American as some may have misunderstood and have thought. It is also again believed that the Anti-Christ will have the same ethnicity as the Roman leader Titus. And the future Anti-Christ like the past Roman 70 AD leader will destroy the temple and will be the one who desecrates the future Jewish temple [2Thess.2:4] which will be destroyed during the tribulation.

The Future Ruler

But make no mistake that one thing is for certain he will be a gentile as scripture relates that the last ruler over the world is known by the phrase “the times of the gentiles”. In other words when the Messiah arrives at his 2nd coming all gentile power will be put down including the Anti-Christ. Who at that time will be a gentile in power and will cease and overthrown as the ruling power over the earth and will be dominated by the power of our King Messiah, Lord of Lords and King of Kings.
